Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

B. S. HALDANE thinks this would be a humdrum world if it were peopled by perfect men and women and is glad there is no such animal. Yet we have known men (a few) of whom we could truthfully say that if we were asked to indicate a fault in them we could not do so, and we have known women and girls—every man and boy has—who were perfect, and who would not be unworthy of the epitaph which William Winter saw on a commemorative stone at Butlers Marston:

Sleep, gentle soul, await thy Maker's will,
Then rise again unchanged—and be an angel still.

One measure which would not have carried through parliament, if whips had been withdrawn and members allowed to vote as they pleased, is that one which placed a ban on clearances for the export of liquors from Canada to any country under prohibition. It was a gesture of international good-will by which Canada has lost and is losing a million dollars a month in revenue. The United States has now declared an intention to repeal the law which Canada voluntarily and gratuitously helped to enforce. Automatically the ban on clearances will be lifted, so far as the United States is concerned as soon as that intention is made effective by legislation, but "Chubby" Power, M.P. thinks we should anticipate that event and allow clearances to be made at once.

The reduction in the duty on cigarettes will help to curtail smuggling from the United States where excise duties are much lower, but the trouble is that habits and tastes have been acquired which will make it difficult to eliminate smuggling of cigarettes.

An old man in a hurry, as Lord Randolph Churchill called Gladstone, is Mayor Cermak of Chicago, who started in at once to grant licenses for the sale of beer. The Volstead act and the 18th amendment are still in effect, but the chief magistrate of Chicago gives official sanction to their violation. The federal government at Washington and the state government at Springfield are still interested in the enforcement of the law, but the mayor assumes that their attentions will be more those of

Towns Confer at Nanton on Skating Rink Lighting Rates

J. Wolfe Represents Council and
Paul Wittcock, Calgary Power Co.
At Recent Meet

A meeting of the representatives of towns operating municipal skating rinks was recently held in Nanton, with representatives from Okotoks, Vulcan, Nanton, Staveland and Claresholm and officials of the Calgary Power Company attending. The Vulcan town council delegate to the meeting was J. Wolfe. Paul Wittcock, district manager of the Calgary Power Company, Vulcan, was present.

It was disclosed at the meeting that the light bills for the rinks last season were as follows: Nanton, $312.14; Claresholm, $275; Okotoks, $271.71; Vulcan, $204.92; Staveland, $181.67.

The representatives of the power company stated that if special consideration were given municipal rinks, similar consideration would be expected by operators of privately owned rinks. J. C. Hiebert, who represented Staveland, asked if the company would be willing to waive its exclusive franchise for electric lighting in relation to municipal skating rinks, to permit them to be lighted by gas. The company representatives were not prepared to answer this proposition without further consideration and discussion with officials of the company.

The representatives promised that the company would consider the circumstances of municipal rinks, and communicate with the towns at an early date.

For the first time in eight months, the fire siren called the Vulcan brigade to action on Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the residence of B. D. Lockhart was gutted by fire and smoke.

Children passing on their way home from school noticed the smoke issuing from the building and promptly turned in the alarm.

USE JUDGMENT

In times like these there are certain laws which should be temporarily suspended. A noteworthy example is the Minimum Wage Act, enforcement of which brings only hardships. Much better suspend the act than drive people to dishonesty by evasion, or drive them out of work.

There are, for instance, cases in this town, in which employers do not actually need the help, and certainly cannot afford to pay employees the minimum wage required by law. But, desirous of retaining old employees, or for humanitarian reasons, employers carry help at a wage which is accepted as reasonable by both parties. The wage may be small, but the point is, it is better than nothing. The girls are employed. They are self-supporting. Any enforcement of the law, would merely eliminate these girls as wage earners. What is accomplished? It is impossible also to enforce any minimum wage amongst school teachers. The ratepayers and the teachers know that the resources of school districts are drastically reduced. It is better for teachers to be working at a very small salary, than not to be working at all. If minimum requirements were rigidly observed, many schools would be closed, teachers would be out of work, and the only result would be retrogression on the part, both of teachers and children.

It seems extremely difficult for the government to appreciate the real circumstances of employers in the province. Amongst average citizens, however, there is a general acceptance of the fact that occupation is a condition desired above all things. Remuneration, while important, can not be governed by any hard and fast rules such as reasonably prevailed a few years ago. Workers must take what employers can afford to give or go workless. Which is the greater help to society?

If the government is justified in prosecuting infractions of the Minimum Wage Act as applying to girls, how does it feel about the current wage last summer of 75 cents a day for men employed in hay camps. Why overlook the hundred and one instances of meagre pay and concentrate so solicitously on one element of society.

It is being borne in on people generally that they are submitted to a supervision which is intolerable. The majority of citizens are trying their utmost to live honestly, pay their debts and do their fairest by their fellowman. Employers have shown a real solicitude for the welfare of their employees. Employees have given good service on reduced pay, because they appreciate existing circumstances. Business would move along much more comfortably and probably quite as efficiently if the government called in its corps of inspectors and official "righters." This is a time demanding simplification and not complication of services.

ALL ABOARD

There is nothing so dependable as the undependability of human tastes and fancies. That which is the height of popularity today, may be only boring tomorrow. This is particularly noticeable in the current preference for railway travel over motor travel. The public has more or less motored itself into satiety. It is now looking for a different form of transportation. The travellers of today are rediscovering the railway.

The public for the past fifteen years has depended largely on the motor car, and later the bus. At first the freedom to move on, when and where fancy dictated without the restriction of time tables, was a tremendous attraction. Motor highways brought their novelty in scenery. But of late years the hazards of highway travel have increased, the motorist has found the strain and responsibility of driving arduous, the misadventures and wear on the machine have been added into the expense total, and restricted space has presented difficulty in long distance travel. The halo of freedom and adventure has given way to a calmer balancing of advantages.

Quick to realize that motor travel had passed the crest of its first popularity, if viewed from the standpoint of pleasure the railways have instituted a revival of business, by presenting attractive bargain offers. And the results have been surprisingly successful.

Not only in this country, but in Britain and elsewhere, they are specializing in week end excursions. It is becoming a practice amongst potential travellers to scan advertisements for the current railroad attractions. Each week the spirit of adventure is stirred by the call to some new point. One week it is a bargain trip from Montreal to New York. Again from Montreal to Toronto, or Montreal to Chicago, and so on, each city participating in some new offer. The fares are priced so reasonably as to ensure patronage, and the method of travel is so dependable and comfortable as to ensure satisfied customers. Once the week ender has bought his ticket he may relax, knowing that he has no responsibility. To the motor-worn traveller, there is something secure, nerve-soothing and almost luxurious about the staunch railway service. Equipment has been greatly improved within recent years and the spacious new coaches and careful service meet every desire in comfort and security.

In Western Canada also, the railways, though handicapped by expensive upkeep and long distances, have presented similar bargain offers which have found ready customers, and the current winter excursions to remote points, have turned many minds to thoughts of a few months at the old home.

There is no doubt that the railroads are due for a big revival in passenger travel, just as soon as the spending power of the public is restored. They are capturing attention at the psychological moment.

WE WANT TO KNOW

The November 1st issue of the U.F.A. magazine is an interesting number. In it, under the caption of "Record of Good Government," a detailed statement of government accomplishment and economies since 1921, is given. There is rebuttal of any accusations of extravagance, and it is true that added expenditures have resulted largely at the instigation and urge of the people. New and additional services, instituted at public request, account for much of our heavy tax burden.

In scanning the items of "startling economies" the newspaper-eye is caught however, by one item, the cost of advertising. Expenditures in 1921 for advertising were $84,161 and these were reduced to $16,958 in 1931.

This is a reduction which has been felt by the newspapers all over Alberta, and which has meant so much less money scattered through the little towns of the province. The U.F.A. government has economized by not causing to be published in the weekly papers its new acts or new amendments to old acts.

As everyone knows, many individuals have been haled into court and fined, for violation of laws of which they were completely ignorant. There was no publication of changes in old acts, and the result was innocent violation followed by fines. By cutting down on advertising, the government also increased its revenue in fines, which adds up nicely but is hardly playing fair by the public.

If government printing expenses had been published side by side with the statement on advertising, fuller information would have been provided. Although not addicted to paid advertising, the government is not averse to publicity and to that end has issued a steady stream of pamphlets for the benefit, particularly of the agricultural population. This output has found its way to the offices of all rural papers, in the hope that it will be used free. Much of the information is valuable, but nevertheless is indirectly a boost for this and that department of the U.F.A. government. It would have been accepted more graciously and used more generally by the small town publisher, if there had been more reciprocity. The cost of printing those innumerable bulletins and pamphlets must have mounted up. It is possible that a proportion of the sum expended in printing, might more profitably and more legitimately have been scattered through out the province in the form of honest advertising.

There is no suggestion that the financial statement appearing in the U.F.A. magazine is not straightforward and accurate. Although the debt of the province has increased enormously within recent date, this has perhaps been more or less unavoidable. And there has been no reflection on the honesty of the government.

There is, however, a lack of detail in most government statements unsatisfying to the average taxpayer. Under present conditions it is the right of the public to know what each department is spending in travelling expenses and what has resulted; what staff each department is employing and the actual work accomplished; what salaries are paid to inspectors and other employees and the value of their labor. Deputies, secretaries, printing expenses should all be itemized and published for the information of the hard-pressed taxpayer. This is done in other provinces. It should be done in Alberta.

CUD ON THIS

Said a shrewd observer the other day: "There never was a time when folk with sense could live as cheaply as they can live now. Wool is four cents a pound. This wool can easily be made into garments. Our grandfathers knew all about so doing. Wheat is fifty cents a bushel. This can readily be ground into meal from which all sorts of nourishing food can be made. Pork is less than $4.00 per cwt. Potatoes are cheap. Apples are abundant. Wood may be had for cutting on shares. No end of houses are for easy rent. Never was it cheaper to start in business or farming." "What's wrong?" "Our style of living. It's the style that costs. Fashion has us by the nose when it isn't holding the whip hand over us."

CHICAGO CATTLE TORONTO BEASTIES

Though business in Chicago is much more depressed than here, prices paid for cattle there are much higher. Cattle from 1,100 to 1,300 lbs. brought $6.25 to $8.50 per hundred-weight at Chicago on Wednesday last, while heavy steers brought only $2 to $3.85 at Toronto, and the best butcher cattle only $4.25. A few store cattle were sold at Toronto as low as $1.50 to $3. Why this great difference between the two markets? There is no such spread between the retail prices in the two cities.—Toronto Globe.

Liquor sales in Alberta showed gross total of $3,571,279 for the year ending March 31.

OVER ESTIMATES SOURCES REVENUE

Provincial Finances Show Deficit of Over $5,000,000 Due to Falling Revenues

Provincial financing for the year ending March 31, 1932, shows a deficit of $5,153,090 as against a deficit of $2,506,681 in the previous year.

Revenues had been estimated at over 18 million, but actually brought something over thirteen million. Expenses on the other hand have been reduced by $183,317 below the estimated expenses.

The net bonded debt increased 19 million during the fiscal year. Included in this is $5,651,181 provincial bonds issued under wheat pool guarantee, and offset by first mortgage bonds issued by the pool. Highways bridges, etc. stand for $4,655,927 (exclusive of relief expenditure); the deficit called for $4,655,927; redemption of savings certificates $1,806,075 and miscellaneous items make up the remainder.

The total debt on March 31, 1932, amounted to $138,197,844.

Actual Collections

The actual collections from the various sources of revenue, reflect the circumstances of the people more truly than apparently had been realized by government.

Taxes and Property

$1,577,000 had been expected from taxes and property but actually only $1,033,007 was realized.

Liquor Profit

It was expected that liquor sales would bring $2,250,000. The public however, cut their drinking drastically with a resulting revenue of only $1,423,467.

Auto Licenses

Quite a number of automobiles faded from the picture during the year. The estimated license returns were $1,797,500. The actual $1,474,353.

Gasoline Tax

People cut their riding practically in half, with the result that the gas tax estimated at $2,300,000 only brought in $1,501,196.

Amusement Tax

This most nearly met expectations and the estimated $225,000 was only $25,000 short.

Fees

The fees of miscellaneous nature were about one million less than expected. The estimate was $2,796,345; the fact $1,732,568.

Fines

In line with other economies the public practised economy in keeping within the law. They did not leave themselves liable and the estimated revenue of $150,000, resulted only in $80,254.

Succession Duties

Succession duties also showed a drop from $550,000 to $258,000.

Substantial Savings

Savings made in various departments of the government administration amounted to $852,077, but were offset to the extent of $668,759-71 by increased debt charges and unforeseen expenditures caused by the extraordinary economic conditions.

Alberta Government Telephone report a deficit of $615,281, due to falling revenues. This utility, however, before arriving at the foregoing figure set aside $823,766 depreciation $123,257 sinking fund, and met interest charges of $1,384,854.

Accounts show a total expenditure on unemployment relief by all authorities of $6,354,303. Of this, $2,426,313 represents Alberta's share and is accounted for by expenditure on the provincial highway system and other public works capitalized at normal costs.

Alfred Shier of Claresholm, convicted of breaking and entering the Claresholm Central Garage with intent to steal, was sentenced to five years. He has appealed.

HOGS PAY IN THE FINISHING

Premium on Selects Show Particular Advantage in Times of Low Prices

The low price of pork and pork products, very often results in the marketing of many unfinished hogs. This in turn forces the market to ever lower levels and results, in many cases, in losses to the producer where as the sale of a finished product would have shown a profit. In times of depression the advantages of marketing only superior quality products are even more marked than when prices are high. For example, in 1929 when hogs were selling for 12-cents per pound or more, the premium on a select hog was $1 or an increase in the value of a 200-pound hog of 4.17 per cent. In 1932 with a price of 4 cents per pound the increase in value on a select hog is 12.5 per cent. Similarly the percentage dockage on grades below bacon is increased with a decrease in hog prices.—Dom. Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S.

PETERSON URGES WHEAT REDUCTION

Licensing wheat producers and instituting the biggest cuts on the larger farms, is C. W. Peterson's solution for the reducing world surpluses. The editor of the Farm and Ranch Review addressing the Wheat Pool annual meeting in Calgary, again brought up his belief that the four great wheat producing countries should confer for the purpose of wheat reduction.

Canada alone, he conceded, could do nothing to alter the situation, but in co-operation with Australia, United States and Argentina, the serious surpluses now existing might be reduced. Mr. Peterson thought the mere announcement of such a conference would raise wheat prices overnight.

Enlarging on his scheme for a voluntary acreage reduction on the part of the four great exporters, the speaker suggested a plan for stabilization of prices, which included a licensing of wheat producers. Under the plan the largest farms would take the heaviest cuts, while the small producer will suffer light curtailment. He expressed the belief that if action could be taken the situation would be definitely solved with no further acreage reduction required.

Ontario County Warden Urges Investigation to Protect All

Urging that the County Council should protect both consumer and producer, Warden Legge of York County, Ontario, shows spread in hog and hog products, between both parties.

"Ten weeks ago hogs were $4.25 to $4.75 a cwt. and lard was selling at 7½ to 9 cents a pound and side bacon at 9 to 13 cents a pound," he said. "Now the farmer gets $2.75 to $3.25 a cwt. for hogs and in spite of that the trade is asked to get 11 to 12½ cents a pound for lard and 11 to 17 cents a pound for side bacon."

HOW WE JUMBLE
OUR LANGUAGE

Even to one whose mother tongue is English, the language is full of verbal peculiarities and puzzling contradictions, but which to a foreigner must be exasperating. "Oh, he's pretty ugly," admitted a young lady whose friend's facial features were being criticized. "It's a little big," complained a child when fitting a hat she had made on her doll's head. It was an Irishman who, on arrival, exclaimed joyfully, "By Japers, I'm first at last; I always used to be behind before!" It was probably the same man who on taking his carcass of hog to market explained, "It didn't weigh as much as I expected and I always thought it wouldn't." It was probably a foreigner who warned to "Look out," stuck his head out of the window and had it knocked off by a passing car. A widow, on being asked how long her husband had been dead, answered, "If he had lived till next Friday, he would have been dead thirty-five years."

"Our abbreviations in pronunciation make our language unintelligible to foreigners and puzzling even to ourselves. "Will you have a cup-tee" asked a lady of her French guest. Not knowing what this dish and too modest to ask, he declined with thanks, and discovered later, to his regret, that it was English for a cup of tea.—Minnedosa Tribune.
